The 300 members of the Princeton Community Players who this week stand on the threshold of reaching their goal—a permanent community theater for the community of Princeton. With the acquisition of Avalon, the historic home of the late great Henry van Dyke, the Players, days away from the 13th anniversary of their first production, are demonstrating that they are a community organization in every sense of the word community, for service to all of Princeton has already been rewarded with the sale of nearly 90 debentures and the receipt of hundreds of dollars in contributions.

Founded in January, 1933, just before the Nation started enjoying an epidemic of "bank holidays", the Players thrived in the teeth of the Great Depression and in 1934 could count 257 paid-up members and look back on four successful McCarter productions. In the second year of their existence, the Players, shunning the lamentable introverted practices of many "little theatre" groups, began the custom of staging at least one play each year for the benefit of a Princeton charity or—after 1939—a charity arising from World War II.

In pursuing what has been described as Princeton's "Good Neighbor Program", the Players have produced 81 plays and have raised upwards of $12,000 for service agencies and thoroughly worthwhile causes. Among the local institutions that have been bolstered financially by the Players are the Princeton Hospital, the Princeton Public Library, the Princeton Summer Playgrounds and the Princeton Girl Scouts' Fund. Other beneficiaries have been the British, Polish and Russian War Relief funds, the American Friends' Service and the Richard W. Warfield Scholarship Fund at Princeton University. They have carried their productions into Princeton's schools at the request of Princeton parents and are still giving days and weeks of work to the sick and wounded in Fort Dix's hospitals.

For upholding the best of democratic traditions by extending membership to any and all residents of Princeton and vicinity; for helping to knit together diverse elements of the community by providing common interests for both the talented and the untalented; for giving substance and worth to their undertakings by devotion to invisible standards of service, they are TOWN TOPICS' candidates for

The Time to Act Is Now! With a blast at the Federal Government for its "lack of courage" in failing to place grains and fats on nation-wide rationing, Mayor Minot C. Morgan, Jr. this week set breadless and "fryless" days for Princetonians. His three-point program, requiring for success the whole-hearted cooperation of restaurants, hotels, taverns, grocers, bakers and consumers alike:

No breadstuffs to be served at any public eating place for Sunday dinner (noon), Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evening meals. Open-faced (one piece of bread) sandwiches will be served whenever feasible.

No bread will be sold on Thursdays. All consumers will be asked not to serve bread at home that day.

All establishments which serve food and all households will be asked not to use cooking fats on Wednesdays.

Mayor Morgan hopes that Princeton can start a nation-wide trend as an example of a "self-disciplined community" interested in aiding starving Europe. He will watch for similar ventures elsewhere, if none is forthcoming will call off Princeton's program one month after it begins this Sunday.

Newsbreaks. Journalistically, it's been an odd week. A family squabble on John Street, in which a four-year old child was requisitioned by one parent from another, resulted in the rumor that five masked men had staged a kidnapping.

At the Penns Neck School, 11-year old Frank Gretzner, was disciplined, went into the coat room and was found dead a short time later with a rope around his neck. The county coroner's records said suicide.

What's your Insurance Question?

IMAGINE IT! I'VE GOT A CAR...IT'S IN PERFECT CONDITION...
BUT I CAN'T DRIVE!

Insurance Question:

Do you know that in many states a single automobile accident may deprive you of the right to drive? Are you sure you have insurance that protects your right to drive under "Financial Responsibility Laws"?

Answer:

If you have Hartford Automobile Liability and Property Damage insurance you needn't worry about a damage suit depriving you of the right to drive your car.

Table Mats. No housewife should be without them, and these particular mats are striking variations from the usual line. To any artistic sportsman, the name Lynn Bogue Hunt should be sufficient reason for putting them on the table, to which they add so much. There are four different game birds from originals by Mr. Hunt, each decorating a mat which is washable, heat and cold resistant, and costs 65 cents. These successful combinations of the attractive and the practical are at the Wine and Game Shop, 6 Nassau Street.

Pin and Earring Sets. Game birds again, but utilized in a very different fashion. You can wear these sterling silver miniature quail, duck and other varieties on your dress, on your ears or as a set. For the seeker of unique costume jewelry, the Wine and Game Shop has a find.

Sun Dresses. Cotton plaid and with a claim to fame all their own, they can be worn three ways: strapless, if you want to be extra eye-catching; low necked but tied, if you need a little something more to feel secure; drawn up to the neck, if you haven't quite gotten used to sun dresses. Whatever your choice, they are tastefully striking in black and pink, yellow or aqua plaids with well-cut, full skirts. Only $8.95 at Joan's Dress Shop on Palmer Square.

Odd Demitasse Cups. There is a better assortment at Slatoff's Silver Shop on Palmer Square than is usually found these days. The cups, appealing as only demitasse cups can be, are a worthy addition to any collection. Or for those who, like most of us, are ever searching for unusual gifts, one cup is practically guaranteed to start a prospective bride on the road to collecting. They are Wedgewood, Haviland, Minton and Dresden. Need more be said?

Jack and Jill Records. Old favorites for young listeners. Two sets, consisting of an illustrated book and several selections on one record, are available at The Music Shop on Nassau Street. Each tune, twice repeated, is announced

OIL HEAT IS FULLY AUTOMATIC HEAT

What type of heating will give you CONSTANT COMFORT, ECONOMICALLY, and EFFORTLESSLY?

Oil heating is the answer, because it is fully automatic heat, highly efficient heat, and thoroughly economical heat.

Our fuel oil delivery is automatic. Once you have made arrangements with Princeton Fuel Oil Co., we keep you supplied with as much oil as you need without a thought on your part. We have reference tables covering temperature changes over a 43-year period. We can predict how much oil you will need to carry you along and we schedule your deliveries on a "degree day" formula which enables us to keep you supplied with oil without calls from you. We simply watch the weather—and from that we know just how much fuel oil you need at any time. Call 1100 today and arrange for automatic delivery.

Softball Trophy. Because TOWN TOPICS believes softball is one of the finest American sports and because we heartily approve of the manner in which the Y.M.C.A. administers the Community Softball League, we take great pleasure in putting up for competition a silver cup. Managers of the ten teams entered in the senior league were told of the award at a dinner held last night at the Nassau Tavern.

That They May Live. The Community Service Center at 130 Nassau Street will serve as the depot for donations of canned food to be shipped to a Europe that is starving far more sickeningly than the average Princetonian realizes. Here is a real opportunity to be kind and generous, one that is within the means of every Princeton pocketbook.

Mr. and Mrs. Rowan Boone of Edgell Street head the collection committee. Others who will be on duty at the center are Mrs. Oppenheim Errera, Mrs. Kenneth Curran, Mrs. Julian Bonfante, Mrs. Arthur D. Hays, Mrs. Gilbert Chinnard and Mrs. Edward L. Piercee.

Miscellany. Bank Street residents, headed by Horace N. Dickey, Mrs. Thomas McCloskey and Arthur Kelly, have petitioned for a fire hydrant and the opening of their street at the north end so that it will lead to either Bayard Lane or Hulfish Street . . . the value of building permits, boosted by $870,000 in April (including $818,000 for the Sloane Estate project), now stands at $1,768,000 for four months, already the highest figure in a decade.

Professor Edward M. Earle of the Institute for Advanced Study this week received the Medal for Merit, highest decoration open to a civilian for war service . . . his work lay principally in patterning the strategic bombing of Germany and coordinating flights of the AAF with the Royal Air Force.

News of the Theatres

The Playhouse

So Goes My Love (Friday, Saturday) is a picturesque, period romance set in the post-Civil War era and spinning an easy-going story in which Don Ameche woos Myrna Loy. It's slow and sweet, occasionally a little too much of each.

Kitty (Sunday through Wednesday) features Paulette Goddard in the title role, that of a seductive cockney waif who conquered London society because Thomas Gainsborough painted her portrait. With most of the book's spice necessarily deleted, the film is mild, fairly amusing, nicely acted.

Heartbeat (Thursday, Friday, Saturday). A chance for a delightful comedy is lost by poor writing and lack of the light touch in this hopefully mischievous story about a light-fingered lady who falls in love with a diplomat. Paris is the setting for the film, which sees Ginger Rogers waste her talents.

The Garden

A Night in Paradise (Friday, Saturday) is a colorful fantasy rich in make-believe and involving such figures as Aesop, Croesus, a lovely princess and a wicked sorcerer. Merle Oberon and Turhan Bey head the cast. It's pretty good fun.

State Fair (Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday). The hit picture of two years ago is back to treat all the family to a homey, happy visit to a gay, colorful fair. The cast includes Dana Andrews and Dick Haymes.

Murder in the Music Hall (Thursday, Friday, Saturday). A ballerina's former producer is killed just after she leaves his apartment to set this whodunit in motion. It moves along at a good pace, with Vera Hruba Ralston and William Gargan as the principals.

Handsmocked Dresses for Little Girls. The Little Clothesline on Palmer Square still makes them in sizes two to eight. The dresses are designed in a simple style that is becoming ever harder to find and provides a perfect background for the outstandingly attractive smocking.

Pantie and Slip Sets. The finishing touch for the small girls who like good lingerie as much as any woman. Hand-made of unbelievably fine cotton, they are delightful to look at and (we have it on the best authority!) a pleasure to wear. Sizes two to six at the Little Clothesline.

Laundry Hampers. It should not be necessary to describe these hampers, capacious enough for any family, beyond saying that they are made entirely of aluminum. However, their appearance deserves a word of appreciation, adding as it does to the interior decoration of any bathroom. They come in shades to match any color scheme, enlivened by a touch of additional color in the form of flowers or birds.
